Judges Selected For First Juried Show At Gallary

Juried shows, point of bitter controversy throughout the 40 years of the Carmel Art Association's existence, will become a reality in January when the first juried show following the adoption of the new policy will open, exhibiting only those pictures that pass muster before a committee of artists approved Wednesday at the board of directors meeting.

The Jury, which was nominated by Richard Lofton and approved by the board, is made up of: Lee Randolph, chairman; Dr. W. K. Fisher, Florence True, Leslie Emery and Gene Francis McComas.

For years there have been two factions in the Association, those who believe that the gallery would benefit by having sharply juried shows in that work of undeveloped artists and the poorer work of the better artists would be weeded out, those who believed that the beginner, no matter how unskilled, should have an opportunity to exhibit his work in open shows along with the best professional artists have to offer. The open show faction, until the action of the board, have held sway. Whatever jurying was done was in the hands of the hanging committee, which, in view of the policy of the association, was of necessity lenient.

The association has finally realized that a certain standard of excellence must be maintained if the gallery is to serve the best interest of the artists and the public. But concessions have also been made to the staunch open show supporters. The result is that there will be three open shows a year at which anybody may hang his work. The other shows will be sharply juried for merit.

Council Extends Fire Zone; Evans Casts "No" Vote

With one "no" vote, Keith Evans', the Carmel City Council passed a resolution to extend the fire zone 2 into various areas of 2A, add a total of 9½ blocks in the business district to the zone of most rigorous fire regulations, requiring that all buildings set on the property line have walls 8 inches thick of concrete or bricks, or that the set back from property line be at least 3 feet. Zone 2A permits wood and stucco structure.

On the south, zone 2 has been extended from the middle of the block between Seventh and Eighth through to Eighth between Lincoln and Junipero. The north boundary has been extended from the mid point between Fifth and Sixth to Fifth on the block between Lincoln and Dolores; and between Dolores and Junipero from between Fifth and Sixth to Fourth. A new belt is taken in in the easterly extension from Junipero to Torres between Ocean and Fourth.

"This may cause hardship on some but we feel it is for the best interest of the greatest number of people," Mayor Fred Godwin said, "and we did not take this action without the strong recommendation of the Board of Fire Underwriters, the Building Inspectors and the Board of Control of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department."

Councilman Evans, the lone hold-out, felt that it would place a hardship in increased building

Dr. Monroe Deutsch To Preside At Asilomar World Affairs Meeting

At the World Affairs Conference to be held next weekend, December 12 to 14, at Asilomar Dr. Monroe E. Deutsch, vice president and provost emeritus of the University of California, and president of the World Affairs Council of Northern California, will preside at the opening meeting at a 6 o'clock dinner Friday evening. At 7:30 a discussion will be held on the U. S. S. R. by Dr. John B. Conliff of the department of economics of the University of California, and Professor Harold Fisher of Stanford University.

Saturday afternoon's program will consider China and her problems, and the dinner meeting will include a discussion of the United States, the United Nations and World Recovery, by George McGhee, Co-ordinator of Aid to Greece and Turkey, and Easton Rothwell, vice chairman of the Hoover Institute at Stanford. Sunday morning's addresses, 9:30 to 11:30, will be given by Dr. Peter Odegard, president of Reed College in Portland, and Bernard S. Drzewieski, representative of UNESCO. Other speakers during the conference will be Arthur

League Invites Public To Hear Dr. Theo Frank

The Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters will hold a general meeting open to the public at Sunset School Cafeteria at 2:30 on Friday, December 12, Mrs. Edmond Sullivan, president, announces. This is the first general meeting since September, as the four League neighborhood groups have met twice a month to study taxes, and are now taking up the study of legislative procedure.

Dr. Theodore Frank of the University of San Francisco will speak at the meeting on the subject of The Pros and Cons of the Marshall Plan. Dr. Frank is a Viennese and can give the European point of view, which is important for Americans to understand. He spoke before the San Francisco LWV and those who heard him were very enthusiastic over his discussion. He will be on the Monterey Peninsula attending the statewide Conference on World Affairs at Asilomar on December 12 to 14, and League members consider it a privilege to hear him.

Dr. Frank came to this country a number of years ago after holding important positions in Austria, Czechoslovakia, and France, and is now a naturalized citizen. He held a professorship in Chicago before coming to California. His Ph. D. degree is from an Austrian university.

The League is following its policy of giving the public an opportunity to hear outstanding speakers on questions of international importance.

Monterey County Symphony Concert

By NANCY LOFTON

There were no half-filled rows in Sunset Auditorium Wednesday night when a capacity crowd from all over the county assembled to hear the opening concert of the second winter season of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

The 64 members of the orchestra played with remarkable esprit de corps considering that a week ago last Monday night marked the first time the orchestra had played together with all its members present. The string section worked better as a unit than the other sections of the orchestra although there was excellent work among the woodwinds.

There were, of course, ups and downs in the program. It takes much playing together for an organization to attain and sustain the unity of action and reaction which makes a symphony orchestra a unit.

The Inflamatus et Ascensus from Rossini's Stabat Mater with Herbert Miller's fine trumpeting pitted against a solid orchestra was very stirring. Sections of Wagner's Rienzi Overture were well sustained, and in the Intermezzo from Granados' Goyescas and sections of the Nutcracker Suite the orchestra members played with spirit and skill, sustaining their legato passages without sinking or dragging and marking their accents quickly and cleanly.

Solo instruments occasionally stood out from the body of the orchestra. The organization evidently contains many good players, but needs more work together.

Daniel Snell, one of the charter members of the organization, deserves high praise for his clarinet passages. Elizabeth Seccombe and Eldeen Gaine both displayed a high degree of musicianship in their playing of the harp and the bassoon respectively.

CIVIC UNITY MEETING

At the Tuesday evening meeting of the Council for Civic Unity in the Girl Scout House, Mr. Kay Nobusada was elected representative from the Monterey Peninsula to the state board meeting to be held tomorrow in Santa Barbara.

Homer Martine, in the absence of Mrs. Julia Brennig, treasurer, reported that more than $200 was collected as a result of the play reading in the Golden Bough Playhouse last week.

PADRES HOST TO HOLLISTER CAGERS TONIGHT; MONTEREY HERE SAT. NIGHT

Two of the best cage squads in the A division of the CCAL will provide the opposition for the Padre hoopsters tonight and tomorrow night. Tonight the potent Haybalers from Hollister will throw their rangy six footers against the speedy Padres. Tomorrow night Coach Leon Lafaille will bring the Monterey Toreadors over the hill to put the red and grey through their stiffest test. Both games will be preceded by lightweight tiffs which start at 7 p.m.

BOTH CARMEL BASEBALL TEAMS WIN IN SUNDAY WINTER LEAGUE PLAY

Last Sunday the league-leading Carmel Legion nine scored three times in the first inning and coasted to a 3-1 victory over Pacific Grove. Ky Miyamoto provided the damaging poke for the locals, when his hard hit fly ball was muffed by the Grove left fielder and two runs allowed to score. Stellar pitching by Vic Marconi kept the PG hitters at bay for the complete contest.

The afternoon game found the Carmel Pine Cone packing too many guns for the rather impotent Stolte club. Jim Hale, Pine Cone chucker, had his curve ball cracking on the edges of the plate to hold the Stolte hitters in check. Good clutch hitting by Charley Nelson, Orville Jones, and Dick Davison manufactured most of the runs for the Pine Cone. Nelson also showed a rifle arm from the outfield, when he picked off an errant runners who strayed too far off first base. Stolte pitcher, John Buceti, proved no mystery to the Carmel hitters and they teed off for base hits in every inning. After seven innings of struggling, the final score read — Carmel Pine Cone 9, Stolte Inc. 5.

PADRES DROP TWO BASKETBALL GAMES

Last Saturday night the Carmel High School lightweight and varsity basketball teams journeyed to Watsonville to engage in their first scrimmage of the year.

The lightweight fracas was a nip and tuck affair which wasn't decided until the last minute, 28-25. Inability of the Padre Babes to hit their free throws spelled the difference in the game. The Carmel combination of Walt Frey, Howard DeAmaral, Herman Menezs, Pat Dormody, and Gene Vandervort looked capable of developing into a smooth working quintet. Menezs was high scorer for the locals, when he meshed the hoop for 12 points. Besides displaying an accurate eye, the defensive ability of Menezs caught the eye of Coach Chuck Dawson. Cat-like agility enabled Herman to intercept several Wildcat passes, which he turned into scores. Besides the aforementioned starting lineup, a host of other small fry saw action for the Padres, with Steve Whitaker and Pete Berg being especially outstanding.

The varsity tilt saw a small but willing Padre squad play the rangy Watsonville team to a standstill for three quarters, and then succumb to a Wildcat scoring barrage in the last heat. Phil Wettengel, Lew McCreery, Paul Warner, Lee Winslow, and Owen Greenan formed the opening combination for the red and grey and they turned in a good early season performance. The second quarter combination consisted of Tom Handley, Dick Garguilo, Dick Weer, Mat Schmutz, and Rod Dewar. This quintet showed good breakaway speed and were ball hawks on defense. Finishing off the quarters were: Murrey Wight, Jim Hare, Ken Wightman, Eric Otto, Pete Carpenter, Blake Lyle, and Ed Seifert. Score: 40-27.

JR. TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Ray Messinger of Monterey and Dean Folger of Douglas School emerged victorious in the first annual Monterey Peninsula Junior Davis Cup and Wightman Cup tennis championships sponsored by the Peninsula Tennis Patrons Association over Thanksgiving weekend. Messinger defeated Dick Hawk of Carmel in the Davis Cup finals, 6-3, 9-7, after having been threatened in the semi-finals by 13-year-old Jack Frost.

In the Junior Wightman Cup final Jennefer Lloyd lost to Dean Folger, 6-3, 9-7. Miss Lloyd's path to the finals included wins over Edwina Brown, 6-3, 6-0, Edelen Cory, 8-6, 6-3, and Patricia Timbers, 6-1, 6-4.

In the first annual Tri-County Junior Mixed Doubles Pat Timbers and Ray Messinger took to the courts against Dean Folger and Dick Hawk, losing 7-5, 6-4. Basil Allaire and Edelen Cory upset the fourth seeded team of Biz Carr and Lou Frost, 6-1, 0-6, 6-4.

Ball girls were Susan and Sarah McCloud, Phyllis Burnette, Nancy Bacon and Paula Schneeberger.

Ball boys were Guy and Bruce Lusignan, Peter Krogh, Henry Fisher and David Beall.

FATHERS-SONS AND GUESTS ENTERTAINED AT BLOCK C FOOTBALL DINNER

Tuesday night at the Carmel High School cafeteria, Padre football players, their fathers, and guests were royally entertained during the Block C banquet. A sumptuous dinner prepared by Mrs. Jacqueline Crosby and her staff was served by the girls of the Carmel High School Leaders Club. The gay table decorations caught the eye of everyone present and added loads of color to the cleverly decorated cafeteria. Bob Barry, president of the Block C Club, was the guiding light in arranging the dinner, and the smooth functioning of the whole

Show Of Children's Portraits Opens At Pine Inn Sunday

Archie B. Teater, in his first one-man show in California, will present interpretive studies of childhood at the Pine Inn for two weeks beginning at 2 p. m., December 7.

Carmel school children co-operated with Mr. Teater by posing during the Thanksgiving holidays. Bonnie Baker, guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes, was the youngest sitter, and Billy Doolittle gave two sittings. Carolyn Fratessa and Gay Masten were also among the young models. Bonnie Wager, in her ballet costume, had to forego a birthday party while posing. Kenny Allen Barker fished while Mr. Teater painted him on the wharf at Monterey.

Mr. Teater has painted since early childhood and has studied under Homer Ross, Alexander Brook, Reginald Marsh and John Carroll. His canvasses are said to capture time and space. He has exhibited at Kennebunkport and Ogunquit, Maine, Hartford, Connecticut, Davenport, Iowa, Tucson, Arizona, and Salt Lake City, Utah. During the month following V-E Day Ferargil's on Fifty-seventh Street, New York, showed his Trinity Church, Fifth Avenue, and St. Patrick's Cathedral, showing reaction to victory in ticker tape, confetti and crowds. Georg Jensen, Fifth Avenue, New York, feature his children's portraits exclusively.

Among Mr. Teater's prized canvasses are those of the Elk Herd, the Jackson Hole and Grand Tetons, and the snows of Sun Valley. His work is in the possession of Stanley Resors, Averill Harriman, H. Bliss, John D. Rockefeller, C. W. Force, and many other collectors.

Mr. Teater expressed himself as agreeing with Jose de Creeft that it is impossible to teach painting or sculpture. "One can only guide and direct," he said. And in spite of the fact that he has not been able to find a studio he has not missed a day with his brushes.

DR. SMITH LIONS' SPEAKER

Dr. Fred Smith of Salinas spoke to the Carmel Lions Club Tuesday evening at the Mission Ranch on his experiences in the medical corps in the South Pacific during the war. He was introduced by Bob Martin and expressed the belief that more casualties resulted from the movement of great masses of people over the world than from actual combat.

The Lions made final preparations for their Christmas dinner and dance to be held next Tuesday evening.

program showed evidence of a thoroughly planned job.

Highlight of the evening was an inspiring talk by Jimmy Phelan, head football coach at St. Mary's College. Coach Phelan held the gathering enthralled during his hour speech. Sprinkling his talk with a galaxy of humorous football stories, Phelan gave players and parents a convincing sales talk on the merits of football.

In addition to Coach Phelan, short talks were given by Mayor Fred Godwin, School Board Member Peter Ferrante, Joe Schoeninger, Cliff Cook, Stuart Mitchell, Chuck Dawson, Ted Lafleur, Don Craig, and Coach George Mosolf. Captain Rod Dewar spoke to the fathers in behalf of the sons, and Mr. J. O. Handley responded for the fathers. The Red and Gray quartet, composed of Paul Warner, Phil Wettengel, Murrey Wight, and Basil Allaire gave out with several numbers during the evening. Ronny Garneau, of the Carmel Lions Club, presented the football players with the good news that the Lions Club had ordered gold footballs for the varsity players who brought the first football championship to Carmel High School. There were 128 gathered around the table.

The Fernand Colliards are winding up their trip to Europe and will be headed for Carmel and home soon. Meanwhile, we have this report of how these much travelled people, who have seen France in other times and aspects, find her today.

Geneva,
November 21.

Dear Mrs. Cook:

Mr. Cook said you might be interested in a few wandering notes on Europe.

France is sadly changed. Little glamor, no gaiety. The people are dour and grim, never smile, and how they loathe Americans! During the ghastly transit strike we occasionally got a taxi after from one to two hours of waiting only to have the sidewalk crowds hurl threats and insults.

The Communists seem to control France, and are trying to cripple everything — utilities, transportation — strikes are continuous.

The Paris papers have lately printed that American literature is so pornographic it must be banned in Europe. The translation of that tiresome Forever Amber is on every bookstand.

Have yet to see a case of mal nutrition. The people look healthy and fat.

We have been to night clubs, music halls and such. The principal burlesque and the favorite joke is America. The songs go something like this, "Hold out your hand, hold out your hand. Uncle Sam will give anything you ask." Then they roar with laughter at any country's being so gullible. Of course this makes us furious.

Something is seriously wrong with the management of U. S. relief supplies. A large percentage never reaches its destination and what does get through is credited to Russia. A U. S. shipment is never mentioned, but if Russia send one carload, there is a great fan-fare in the papers.

The Communists head for the Factory towns where they can sway the ignorant and uneducated, and don't fail to do so. In many cases in these towns the U. S. packages are given to the wife of the factory owner. She hands them out as personal gifts. Never a mention of America, and unfortunately, no marking on the food. It seems to me that stamping an American flag and U. S. on each article would lead to better understanding.

There is no butter, lard, sugar, milk or chocolate for the average person—only for the wealthy. Butter costs $19 a pound and the meat is unthinkable. As for coffee —they burn oats and the result is pure quinine. All this applies to France. Switzerland much better, but food very dear.

Religion is at a low ebb. The churches once crowded, are now nearly empty.

Clothes, shoes are double our U. S. prices and not too attractive at that. No more good perfume being made. The French seem to have lost their pride in perfection. Guerlain is the only perfumer honestly trying to make a come-back.

Think we've hardly missed a town in Switzerland. Leaving tonight for the Riviera (if the latest R. R. Strike permits) then back to Paris—and sail from Rotterdam.

We miss the beauty and calm of Carmel.

Best regards,
Mimi Colliard.

Deas Tells P.T.A. Need For Tolerance In Daily Living

A large crowd of Carmel parents and teachers, amplified by members of the ministerial association and the Carmel Lions Club who were invited guests, heard Mr. Roger Deas of San Francisco deliver a stirring appeal for Tolerance in Our Daily Living at the December meeting of the Carmel Parent Teachers Association.

Mr. Deas is director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and is known as one of the most able speakers in the west. His speech was warmly received as he spoke of the crying need for more consideration of the beliefs of others in the world today.

Mrs. Thomas J. Elston presided over the meeting which convened in the cafeteria of the Carmel High School at 8:00 o'clock Thursday evening. She gave greetings to the audience and presented the Girls' Glee Club of Carmel High School under the direction of Mr. John Farr in the singing of To a Homeless Child at Bethlehem, by Busch, and Sleep, Holy Child, an old French carol.

Members of the chorus were: Nancy Anderson, Eleanor Bannerman, Joyce Bannermon, Zoe Beyma, Margot Boice, Lourdes Brosnan, Patsy Canoles, Edelen Cory, Joan Daniels, Yvonne Goodrich, Betty Hendricks, Charis Johns, Pat Machado, Betty Lou Maloney, Doris May, Nancy McCarthy, Connie McKibbin, accompanist, Ardith Morrisseau, Patsy Pierce, Nancy Santee, Delore Sharpe, Joyce Stiles, Lorene Townsend, Sally Reichard, and Violet Lee Sheehy.

Stuart Mitchell, superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District, introduced Mr. Deas. After his speech the audience enjoyed cider and cakes served by a hospitality committee under Mrs. Burton Doolittle, assisted by Mrs. Howard Clark and Mrs. Benjamin Cory. The decorations of the refreshment table were the work of Mrs. Marjorie McCausland, Mrs. Jacqueline Crosby, dietician of the High School, also served as hostess and was responsible for the arrangement of the hall. The attractive programs distributed among the members of the audience were the work of Richard Hagedorn and Lloyd Miller of the high school staff. General chairman in charge of all arrangements for the evening was Mrs. Mark Raggett and Mrs. Dorothy von Meier served as program chairman for the December meeting.

LECTURE ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Our class is making an Indian village out of clay and willow branches. We are making houses, hammers, awls, knives, adz, and arrowheads. I made an arrow, a hammer, a corn grinder, and a keg that broke. —Bobby Kibler.

My cat is black. He is very nice, I think. He catches many animals like gophers and field mice and many more animals. Almost every night he comes and sleeps with me. He is half Siamese and half Persian. If you look at him closely he looks like a tiger. —Peter Jenkins.

I used to live in Long Beach where I went to school called Lowell School. I moved to Hollister, California, where I stayed for three months. I went to a Catholic School called Sacred Heart. Then I came to Carmel where I hope I stay for a long time.
—Katherine Mieto.

Our class or some of our class made a frieze. It has a Pilgrim ship. I think the land part is better than the sea. My favorite spot is the Indian's camp. There is a table with Pilgrims and Indians sitting up to it in the middle of the frieze. On each side we have a horn of plenty with pineapples, grapes, apples, oranges, and bananas.

In the back of the room we have some autumn leaves that we cut out of paper and colored.
—Charles Crocker.

One day we loaded a truck to move to Carmel. In the first load we put a piano, a chair, a radio, a ladder, a doll carriage, a couch, etc. The hardest was the piano because it was the heaviest. When it came to unloading the truck, we put the dolly underneath the piano and tried to pull it across the lawn. It wouldn't work so we took the dolly out from under the piano and put boards on top of the grass and wheeled it across the grass. Then we came to the stairs. We put boards on the stairs and wheeled it up the stairs. On the way up, Daddy's foot slipped. The rest of us grabbed the piano and pulled it up the stairs and in the house.
—Jean Reyburn.

The Sunset School of Carmel had the Red Cross membership drive to raise money to help the destitute people all over the world.

This money is to be used to help feed, clothe, and provide medical care for children. There are so many children that need warm clothing, good food, and protection against all kinds of sickness.

The children of America are glad to give their money.

Frederick Humphrey Poet And Editor Is Now A Carmelite

Frederick Blaine Humphrey, now a resident of Carmel, is well-known in the field of poetry for his two anthologies of Nebraska Poets and for his own work which has appeared in magazines all over the country. He has also published an interesting little pamphlet called "America A Commonwealth" in which he sets forth some challenging ideas on government.

In a charming little poem called "Carmel Bay" he notes how the "white gulls banking against the wind, pattern the flaming gold and blue of a sunset-sky." Mr. Humphrey has a deep love of nature combined with a great sense of human justice and living religion.. He is an asset to our little colony of poets and artists. —H.J.

Recently several bowling enthusiasts from Carmel High have joined the Junior Bowling League of Monterey. Meeting every Saturday morning at nine and eleven, the league is supporting a contest in which the team sponsored by the Carmel Lion's Club is currently on top. This is a grand chance for those of you who wish to join an organization which not only makes it possible to bowl at reduced prices, but attracts others from all over the peninsula with the same common interests.

The big Junior-Senior co-recreational basketball game was held last Thursday, with the Seniors squeezing through on a slim two point margin. The winning basket, made in the last 2 seconds of the game was garnered by Senor Paul Warner. Tense with excitement, the crowd rose to their feet as the thrilling game drew to a close. The contest was not only enjoyed by the audience, but by every member of the teams participating.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, December 7. The Golden Text is taken from Hebrews: "Every house is builded by some man; but he that built all things is God" (3:4).

Included in the sermon are the following citations:

Revelation: "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created" (4:11).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is the grand creator, and there can be no power except that which is derived from Mind. If Mind was first chronologically, is first potentially, and must be first eternally, then give to Mind the glory, honor, dominion, and power everlastingly due its holy name" (p. 143).

Unification Of Germany-Austria Necessary To Peace–Schuschnigg

Dr. Kurt von Schuschnigg spoke dispassionately of means of economic recovery of Europe, including Germany, before a Town Hall audience in Sunset auditorium last Friday night. Deeply impressed by the statesmanlike calmness and impersonal attitudes, of the man who had suffered imprisonment at the hands of the Nazis, the audience listened closely as he discussed the present problems of the small states of Central Europe, unable to defend themselves and practically forced to form alliance with one of the stronger powers.

Austria, he said, bore much the same relation to Germany as the United States does to England, for Germany is the mother country; the language, though not identical, is largely derived from the German. Hence there was considerable basis for the contention that the two countries should unite. But the small countries desire independence, "The people have the same idea as Patrick Henry—'Give me liberty or give me death,'" and the solution of the problem of Central Europe now seems farther away than ever. The area is smaller than the United States, with a population of one hundred forty million people and an economy dependent upon cooperation of all the peoples.

Up to 1918 Central Europe was an organized community, of few diffferent governments, with close knit economy, but it is foolish, the speaker pointed out, to try to turn history back; instead we must try to find an entirely new solution. The people require aid in working out their economic recovery, but there can be no recovery for any of the countries without German recovery. Industries in the different nations supplement one another and none can rise at the expense of the rest.

These small states struggling to get back to a stable condition must have aid, Dr. von Schuschnigg said, "or sooner or later they will all have one sovereign," despite the desire for independence. As to whether the German people can be re-educated for peaceable relations with others, he believes it can be done, but safeguards must be adopted. It will take more than one generation to bring this about. Even the Dutch people feel the need for economic recovery of Germany in order to achieve general European stability. As to a United States of Europe, that is an idea for the future; it can't be established in a few years or two or three decades. In the meantime, those who believe in peace should never commit themselves to the idea of peace at any price, for that will bring war.

Dr. von Schuschnigg's hearers, by their applause, showed great appreciation of the man who could put aside personal feelings and give his earnest effort to finding a way out of the chaotic conditions that beset his homeland.

Right up in the FOUR-FRONT

SCATTERED across this nation are some of the cagiest automobile buyers the world ever saw.

They cut their eyeteeth on a steering wheel, so to speak—they know car values from A to izzard – and you have to be plenty good to step ahead of your price class in the volume of your sales to them.

That's why it's startling – sometimes even to us – to see the double-barreled story of public preference that's written in the sales records and registration figures:

ITEM: Only three cars outsell Buick – and all of these are in the so-called "low-price field."

ITEM: In some localities – and quite often in polls that ask "Which car will you buy next?" – Buick ranks not fourth, but third, actually ahead of one of the lowest-priced three.

Naturally, the smart buyer will ask "How come?"

Well, the most standout style of the season, the style that's the clearest forecast of wonderful things to be, undoubtedly has much to do with it.

But that isn't all. The dollar is still a pretty important measuring stick.

So we don't think Buick could be where it is if it didn't offer a bigger dollar's worth – bigger in size and substance, in lift and life, in soft ride and easy handling, bigger in the all-round happiness you'll get out of your buy.

Which suggests, of course:

Why go against the solid judgment of your fellow men? Why not see your Buick dealer now – with or without a car to trade – and place the order that will put you where you belong, right up in the four-front?

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

MAN AGAINST MYTHS

By Edward O. Sisson

(A Review of Barrows Dunham's Man Against Myth, Little, Brown and Company, 1947.)

I suppose young Americans in high schools and colleges are still fed upon "classic" myths, with Theseus slaying the Minotaur and Aphrodite rising from the sea-foam. But this Twentieth Century "St. George" unsheathes his sword against Twentieth Century dragons, which, alas, though myths, are also potent realities. Here are his dragons, each one dragged from its cave and slain with hard facts and ruthless logic:

That you can't change human nature.
That the rich are fit and the poor unfit.
That there are superior and inferior races.
That there are two sides to every question.
That thinking makes it so.
That you cannot mix art and politics.
That you have to look out for yourself.
That all problems are merely verbal.
That words will never hurt me.
That you cannot be free and safe.

Having been jousting at some of these dragons myself for several decades, I am naturally excited at seeing them in the table of contents of this book. Some of my readers may remember a lecture in which I pointed out the hard scientific fact that human nature is precisely that nature which has changed more than any other nature we know anything about; and that an eminent anthropologist, Ales Hrdlicka, says that "Man is as plastic as he ever was, if not more so."

"This ancient platitude" (that you can't change human nature) says Dunham, "might long ago have been relegated to a home for superannuated ideas, were it not so constantly useful . . . Everyone has said it; many have believed it; few have understood it. Its uses are multifarious. Is there poverty in the world? That's because men are naturally improvident. Are people unemployed? That's because men are naturally lazy. Are there wars? That's because men are naturally belligerent . . . they were all born so, each in his kind."

On two of the many heads of this particular dragon Dunham pours his heaviest blows — the "incurable selfishness of Man", and the "incurable stupidity of Man". On the latter he writes, "It seems curious that Americans, whose own history testifies triumphantly to the achievements of mother-wit, should believe for one moment in the incorrigible stupidity of mankind. Not American history alone, but all history refutes the notion." Then comes a solar-plexus blow at the very "rulers" who cultivate this myth: ". . . they believe no such thing. On the contrary they are fully convinced of their own ability to control society and manipulate it as they please. The myth is intended not for them, but for us."

Let me point back in history to the first great primer of the doctrine of the "incurable stupidity of mankind," Plato's miscalled Republic; all through this great work of subversive art, runs the royal "We" of the small band of wise-good rulers: "we must do this," and "we must do that;" but never are we let into the secret of who are the "We" who shall do it all, nor of how this "We" is selected out of the total mass of the population, still less of how this "We" shall get into the position of power. Plato never dared to face that question, surrounded as he was with the Mussolins and Hitlers of his own day, who were the all-wise and all-powerful "W" of their own communities.

I have not found in many days such a union of scientific knowledge, clear thought, and profound humanity, as this book embodies. For once I agree with the "blurb" on the jacket: "This is a guidebook to good sense and logic; it sends a breath of fresh, clear air into the dark places of flummery, obscurantism and prejudice." As to style, "It is . . . written in acid, pungent style—a brilliant, witty and rakingly ironic study of some of the social myths . . . which deceive so many in favor of so few—acceptance of which is so often substituted for thinking."

The author makes no pretense of completely "disinterested" approach, another myth dear to the heart of the intelligentsia. He is no cold mathematical calculator, no "Man from Mars" emancipated from love and hate and desire. He is human, very human, and is not ashamed of his ardent affection for mankind and his decided aim at human welfare and happiness. He is no mere umpire or referee, but is in the thick of the game himself, fighting for what he believes in. But it is all in the open, with no cards up the sleeve and no "concealed weapons." He is interested, even ardent, but you know just what he is interested in, or rather for, and what he is ardent about.

The beauty of this is that, being deeply interested and having dynamic views and purposes, he still keeps his thinking clear and sound. This is the rare virtue of the most admirable work of the mind. It is so easy to think in a vacuum, in the mythical region of "Pure Reason"; one might almost say that any fool can do that. But to think straight on questions about which everyone with a heart must feel deeply, even passionately, this is a bow which only the strong can draw.

Chapter IX, the myth "That All Problems are Merely Verbal", is the high point of Dunham's indignant attack upon these pseudo-disinterested observers. Two of my own pet aversions come in for ungentle treatment here, the old-new "Logical Positivism", which emasculates philosophy to be only "the critique of language"; so, while, as Dunham writes, "the earth's imagined corners flamed with horror and sacrifice", the leader of this so-called philosophy is inditing a book explaining "the logical structure of the world." How contemptuous such a mock philosophy must be of Hegel's solemn words that "Nothing great is achieved without passion"; or John Dewey's insistence that philosophy is a "criticism of the social and moral strifes of the day."

The other minor dragon is "semantics"; I must demur to Dunham's inclusion of all semantics, which in its legitimate form is indispensable, and name the myth "general semantics", another old-new myth of our own day. To anyone under the spell of Korzcybski and some of his disciples, I commend the earnest study of this chapter of Dunham's, especially the section, "The Attack upon Logic", pp. 241-8.

For the immediate moment in our own history, this day of "unAmerican" committees—and if this phrase is ambiguous, make the most of it—Chapter X, "That Words will Never Hurt Me", is first aid of the most effective sort. If you have time for only two chapters, read read XI and X.

And yet, the last chapter, "That you cannot be safe and free", deals with the most perilous myth at this moment in our own land and in the world. In very rough form, the myth is that we can have security only under a "police state", a government armed against external foes and dissenters in its own body. Since we Americans are devoted to liberty, we must forego security. This has a bold and valiant sound, until we learn that the security we are to forego includes a living wage, decent housing, adequate medical care, our children's chance for education. For any clear eye can see that without such "securities" as these, liberty is an empty word.

Professor Dunham still holds the faith, even in the face of the ominous contemporary scene, that we can be both safe and free; or perhaps that we must be both, since we cannot be safe if we are not free, nor free if we are not safe,—all within the limits of human nature and sound reason. "But we," he writes, "if we are to fear anything, ought rather to fear the old ways, the old intolerances and crimes, the old myths that once obscured our vision. We are cast upon the future without reluctance and even without regret, as finding there the substance of desire."

QUINCE TREES

At the fir-wood's lower edge
Scraggly quince trees make a hedge.
Some old farmer long ago
Set them in this frugal row,
Then, with grace that such attain,
Left them to the sun and rain.
Now I like to think that he Hoped that some day one like me,
Passing through the meadow, might Find in them a keen delight.
It would please me if he knew
That his dreaming had come true,
For three times within a year
These old trees have brought me cheer:
Once in April when they stood
Pink with bloom against the wood;
Once in Autumn when I found
Globes of gold upon the ground,
And an incense Eden-rare
Filled the soft October air;
And this morning when I spread
Quince ambrosia on my bread.

—Athan David Cunningham.

WINTER SUNRISE

Overhead, a whitening moon;
in the east, a shrinking star,
and three slow gulls
across the saffron promise of the day, the spell of wakening sky and blanching treetops that holds me mute and staring.

There beyond is the rapture—once more, so lightly, so simply passed from thought ineffable into me—
the silent, stricken, all unworthy.

O let me come close to this wild glory—that not the spiritless task, nor anything
shall rob me!

—Charles Ballard.

PENULTIMATE LIGHT

Let love's petals of light
be slow to blossom.
Let no storm blow
the luminous leaves from earth-bending boughs of ultimate fruition.

—Frona Lane.

Camp At Pinnacles

Seventeen Boy Scouts from troops 86 and 32 camped overnight at the Pinnacles, Friday, November 28, returning to Carmel Saturday, after exploring all the caves.

After cooking their dinner, Boy Scout fashion, the boys enjoyed games around a huge bonfire until the rain started at 9:30 which was just in time for "taps."

Scoutmasters in charge of the outing were: Carl Bensberg, Wallace Doolittle and his cousin, Einer Morris. Three automobiles transported the boys, their sleeping bags and "grub."

Such outings are an important part of the Boy Scout training program. During the war, this training proved to be of inestimable value to our troops. Parents who realize the importance and educational value of the Boy Scout movement are cooperating with the leaders to give the boys a better housing condition here in Carmel.

Carmel Womens' Club Notes

With Walter Murray, M. A., as speaker, the regular monthly meeting of the Carmel Women's Club on Monday afternoon, December 1, was well attended and full of interest. Mrs. Benjamin G. Johnson, the president, announced that no section meetings will be held during the month of December, also that the bazaar held November 3, netted over $600 for the building fund. The Duplicate Bridge Series Tournament played during October and November, netted $150 for the building fund. Co-chairmen of the Bridge Tournament are Mrs. J. E. Abernethy and Mrs. Fenton Grigsby. Another tournament will start in January.

Mrs. Verne Skillman, first vice president and program chairman, introduced the speaker at the meeting December 1, Walter Murray, who is now on the faculty of the University of California as an instructor in interior decoration. Murray earned degrees at Stanford and University of California, studied art at Northwestern Institute, Chicago and at Cooper Union in New York, followed by study abroad.

Exhibiting samples of draperies and upholstering fabrics, Murray illustrated his talk, stressing these points in interior decoration: the proper use of mirrors to reflect the beautiful; gray or white ceilings—yellow with redwood; use of old walnut, combining the old with the new as befits the informality of life in Carmel; the use of large, low, floor windows; long, full drapes without curtains; large lamps to suffuse light; a circle arrangement avoiding horizontality and a circle arrangement of furniture.

If you like to, want or hope to dance or even want to talk about dancing, RUTH ALLERHAND'S DANCE STUDIO on Pacific Street in Monterey is the place to be going on next Wednesday night, December 10. One Wednesday night a month the beautiful studio will hold open house for all people who like to dance and who'd like to be with other people who like to dance. There will be light refreshments, and music and much dancing of whatever kind you prefer, and DANCE NIGHT AT THE ALLERHAND STUDIO should prove a welcome community institution. There will be too, instruction in rumba and samba steps, as well as an exhibition of South American dance rhythms.

A simple and painless way to have your relations or distant friends see the Monterey Peninsula and its environs is to send them the set of twenty color transparencies taken by C. EDWARD GRAVES who knows this country well and has photographed it with care. This set of transparencies may be looked at with either a small viewer or a projector. The slides are 2x2 in. and include cormorants and pelicans taking their repose on Pacific Grove rocks, Garapata Creek, the Carmelite monastery reflected in the San Jose Creek lagoon, the Carmel River mouth and the Santa Lucia Hills. Some of these same scenes are available in three dimensional color slides. The sets of color transparencies as well as the three dimensional pictures may be obtained from C. EDWARD GRAVES, 897-M, or they may be ordered through him from the Philp Photo Visual Service, 1218 American Ave., Long Beach Calif.

A watch may get shop worn, too, but the watches in THE VILLAGE JEWELER on Dolores north of Ocean are new and bright and just barely unpacked from the cases in which they came from their makers who were Waltham, Elgin and Gruen. A watch of any variety makes a most acceptable Christmas gift. A little shining lapel watch would tell time most gracefully, and THE VILLAGE JEWELER has a large group of them for around $30,00, some with rhinestones in silver, some in gold with flowers, bowknots and chatelaine pins and chains. As for watch repairing, THE VILLAGE JEWELER has been repairing watches for twenty four years and feels confident he can care for any ailment disturbing your watch in from one to three days.

Do not sit home and worry on Sunday afternoon. THE VILLAGE BOOKSHOP on Ocean Avenue is open from two to six on Sunday afternoon and you can do much of your shopping there. THE VILLAGE BOOKSHOP is participating in the national gift certificate plan of the ABA, by which you may send a gift certificate of any value from one dollar up which is redeemable at participating book stores throughout the country. You'll find Christmas correspondence paper there, and the shop also takes subscriptions for magazines. Above all there are books, and there must be books for Christmas.

Of straw fine as white pulled taffy people in the Philippines make collars for glasses which you will find in THE SOUTH SEAS HANDICRAFT SHOP in the Golden Bough Court on Ocean Avenut. These collars will fit any size glass and not only protect table tops but make your glasses easier to hold. Round mats for a variety of purposes from Samoa and shopping bags of Pandanus fibre from Fiji, for only .50, double walled roll baskets to keep hot bread hot and covered sewing baskets are only a few of the fascinating importations from the south seas. Perhaps nicest of all is a little five inch long salamander simply carved from dark gray nacre, though you might be more tempted by a bracelet and necklace of shark's teeth, beautiful and white and wicked looking, set in sterling silver.

THE CARMEL ART SHOP up in the Seven Arts Court on Lincoln has a world of fascinating things to keep your little hands busy before Christmas. Papers of all descriptions fill one table, block printing paper, stencilling paper, paper for making Christmas cards, shining gold and silver sheets, heavy sheets in smooth mat colors, absolutely all purpose paper. There's another table of boxes, glove boxes, cigarette boxes, notion boxes, boxes in boxes, all smoothly finished in good woods and ready to be enamelled, painted, stencilled or whatever you wish. They come in many sizes and prices. You'll find scrap books and wooden trays ready for decorating, too, but in THE CARMEL ART SHOP you'll find whatever you need to make Christmas gifts.

The CARMEL DELICATESSEN really quite glitters with holiday merchandise. Exciting gift sets in round boxes or shaped like woven wood picnic baskets carry packages of Wisconsin-made and imported cheeses. Possibly even more delicious to contemplate is the complete line of Charlotte Charles, who claims to have all of the great Emperor Napoleon's recipes. She has boxes of rum cake, Napoleon's favorite, and the gift sets, in various sizes, carry such mouth watering delicacies as French sherry pralines, old English plum pudding, brandied cherry sauce, and English mint squares. Children will especially be delighted with the fruit shapes and startling colors, greens, reds, yellows, stripes, of the marzipan candies, and no one young or old would find the Maple Orchards candy anything but irresistible. Added to all these wonderfully wrapped goodies are boxes of Hardy's Liebkuchen, chocolate sealed, plain and tea size. There is such a variety of size, price, and type of merchandise at the CARMEL DELICATESSEN that it would be hard to decide which delicacy to choose.

The ribbon makes the package, and tasteful shoppers should make it a must to view the beautiful assortment of Christmas ribbons shown at the N. B. FLOWER SHOP. There are ribbons in silver and gold material resembling lame, and the wide satin ribbons in clear chartreuse, gold, red, are beautiful for bows on large packages or could be artistically used as decorative color notes on candles and flowers. If you wish to avoid the more traditional Christmas colors, you might choose from among the mauves, periwinkles, and glimmering iridescents. As a complement to your gift, tie it with a well selected ribbon.

LIAL'S MUSIC SHOP at Monte Verde and Ocean Avenue, and on Alvarado in Monterey, presents the Magnavox in classic and modern models starting at $198.50. It contains the most modern developments in radio and victrola, and is a magnificent piece of furniture as well. The cabinets are in period lines such as the Regency Symphony, and the Belvedere, an authentic Chippendale design, or the modern simplicity of the Provincial and the Contemporary. All models are available at LIAL'S and can be bought on a budget plan.

It is interesting to discover that with a little energy, a brush, rolled up sleeves, a pair of blue jeans and plenty of Wonsover Dutch Boy Paint any wall can be quickly covered and no re-painting is necessary. Wonsover means just what it says. One coat does the job. The paint comes in quart, gallon, or five gallon sizes, and eight different colors, among them ivory, California peach, mission white, and rose pink cream. McPHILLIPS on 5th and San Carlos, is fully equiped to take care of any house, inside and out.

Scouting Ocean Avenue at lunch time, I wandered into WHITNEY'S DINING ROOM. Old Carmelities remember it for good food and friendliness. To enter now is like rediscovering an old friend. Wibby, who now operates the Dining Room, greets you and sees that you get service you will enjoy. The luncheon menu offers a fine selection, at prices ranging from .85 to 1.25 for complete luncheons. Also featured are a variety of sandwiches and salads at reasonable prices. The dinner menu, served from 6:00 to 10:00 p. m., is varied and tempting, and priced from 1.85. Real CHARCOAL BROILED lamb chops and steaks are featured. If you haven't discovered Wibby and Whitney's, you'll enjoy the surprise of excellent food in an atmosphere of Old Carmel

There are few places to go at 11 p.m. in Carmelbut at that chilly hour THE VILLAGE CORNER on Dolores and Sixth is still open every night. Leave the cold winter night air and enter THE VILLAGE CORNER where there is waiting hot soup or tea or coffee or hot chocolate topped with whipped cream, and not hot air but radiant heat. At the dinner hour THE VILLAGE CORNER always serves some sustaining hot dish, such as chile or beef stew, in addition to their sandwiches, salads and ice cream which you may have at any hour of the day, up to 11:30 p.m.

To help your man attain that Man of Distinction Look, try DEREK RAYNE'S well groomed shop for men on Ocean Ave. As well as beautiful imported woolens, he also carries famous brands at popular prices. If your pocketbook is on a diet (after all, butter has gone up) and you are surrounded with uncles, brothers, fathers, sweethearts and husbands, DEREK RAYNE will satisfy your taste and your silver supply. For athletic manhood he offers Rogue and Pendleton Sport Shirts from $6.95; Valcuna pullover V neck sweaters from $6.00; for the more casual type there are Pendleton and Botany slacks from $14.95; Crosby Square Loafer shoes at $8.95; Botany wool robes at $12.95; and for that man of taste who cares about his accessories there are Botany and Wembley ties at $1.00; Manhattan dress shirts from $3.95; Paris and Hickok belts from $1.50; and those wonderful Dobbs hats from $5.00. At these prices, any man can look smart.

Just because we have now entered the atomic age does not stop the feminine mind's constant yen for the luxurious. The arrival of 75 new robs at GAIL COUPÉ's dramatic modern shop on San Carlos should help assuage this desire. One can be a queenly lady of legend in a robe of padded velvet, incredibly blue, a fascinating lady in the dark who lounges before her fire in a robe of blazing red, a lady of many moods and mysteries for there are robes in taffeta, jersey, satin, all wool flannels, and colors from brilliant shades to soft pastels. There is a gay checked taffeta to help the cause of glamour at breakfast, and for utter soignee, put in an appearance in a padded velvet robe of midnight black vividly lined in red. GAIL COUPÉ is open Friday nights until 9:00.

I would wager that one of the cleanest, freshest shops of the Peninsula is MAC'S POULTRY SHOP on San Carlos. The immaculate atmosphere is enhanced by rows of young fresh fryers, roasters, and fricassees, raised expressly on corn feedings for Carmel dinners, tom turkeys in size to fit any occasion, eggs piled in neat piles of brown and white resembling clear background photographs, always fresh and in all sizes. The brown eggs are especially large. When one thinks of a Sunday patio breakfast with eggs a la benedict, or a fireside dinner of roast chicken, it is hard to stay way from MAC'S POULTRY SHOP.

That gay popular Barn at the MISSION RANCH, open on Saturday nights from 8:30 to 1:30, now features a trio of Pat Patterson playing accordion (Pat also sings), John Upton, bass cello, and Bill Dillard, steel guitar. These lads, who also broadcast on KDON every day at 12:30, keep the Barn lively and give especially hot with the sambas and rhumbas. To prelude all the music and dancing we suggest that you try Duncan Hines' recommendation of Barbecued Chicken (the chickens especially raised on Carmel Valley scenery) in the Club Dining Room. Then move your dinner party over to the Barn and keep things in full swing until way past midnight. Or, if you prefer to help the music out yourself, you can stay right in the dining room and join in some colorful community singing accompanied by Bob Harbolt at the piano.

Mademoiselle et Madame: If the thing you hate most in the world is dish washing, rush into DON EARLY'S and stare in amazement at the 2-unit job consisting of shining sink attached to (this is it) a fabulous dish washing unit. After the party, instead of wishing for a psychoanalyst or the nearest couch, dump those dishes into their neat wire compartments, pour in soap and water, and forget them. DON EARLY also features stoves in five models, one particular model containing four units for cooking, a griddle, separate high broiler, and oven. Everything at this store is ready for immediate delivery.

Art Tea Postponed

The Carmel Art Association, through the Curator Mrs. Nellie Montague, announced this week that the tea scheduled for Sunday, December 7, as well as all Sunday teas in December must be postponed. This is due to the fact that the construction of a store room and an extra serving room in the building is still incomplete.

The Association will have a tea, for members only, in January.

The new oil show which is now on display will continue through December. An added feature is the new table of gift certificates which may be purchased in amounts from five dollars up. These make ideal Christmas gifts as the recipient may choose a work of art to suit his own particular taste.

Bonham Golden Anniversary

More than 150 guests responded to the gold-engraved invitations to a golden wedding anniversary reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Earl Bonham from two to five, Sunday, November 30.

Mrs. Bonham, nee Lillian Mae Temple, wore a gold crepe gown with a waistline ornament of gold sequins. Her corsage was of rare, green orchids. The decorations, in charge of Mrs. J. D. Bishop, were of magnolia leaves dipped in gold, interspersed with yellow candles. The tables were covered with lace and gold ornaments. The mantel carried out the same motif.

Assisting in the plans and details were Mrs. Oliver Watson and Mrs. John Flaws. A four-tiered wedding cake was served with other refreshments. Pouring were members of the Eastern Star: Mrs. B. H. Schulte, Worthy High Priestess of White Shrine, and Mrs. Tom Douglas, president Past Matrons Patrons Association. For the second hour, Mrs. Franklin Young, Worthy Matron Monterey Chapter Eastern Star, Mrs. Leslie Smith, president La Estrella Circle Eastern Star, Mrs. A. J. Mason and Mrs. Eldridge McCormick, old friends in the Eastern Star.

The following assisted on the receiving line: Mesdames Oliver Watson, A. J. Mason, Eldridge McCormick, Charles Rubin, Helene Schultz, Helen Bellamy, James Bannerman.

In charge of the guest book and the numerous and precious gifts were Miss Ina Beth Watson, Joyce Bannerman and Elizabeth McCormick.

Entertainment consisted of the display of old-time photos and of music by Mrs. Eldridge McCormick at the piano, and her daughter, Elizabeth McCormick, on the violin.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonham, the host and hostess, were married in Burlington, Iowa, in 1897. They have resided in Carmel since 1923. On April 8, 1928, Bonham was elected mayor of Carmel. He served until 1930 with a record for efficiency and has earned the goodwill of the entire community.

Mrs. Bonham is Past Matron and Mr. Bonham is Past Patron of Carmel Lodge 680 F. A. M.

Many friends on the Peninsula congratulated the Bonhams on their golden anniversary and wished that they may celebrate their diamond anniversary.

Kuster Travels

While Gay and Marcia Kuster waited in Hollywood, Edward Kuster came home on a flying trip to attend to business for several days this week and then returned to them for two or three more weeks vacation. Previously, the Kusters had been resting in Santa Fe and Taos, where Mr. Kuster found it "cold enough to reach the well-known marrow," so he holed up and went to work on the cello as he hasn't in years, arriving at such a satisfactory point in recapturing his former skill and technique that he invited Taos friends for an informal musical.

Walter Scott

Walter Scott, 43, died Monday night at his home on Junipero near Eighth street, after an illness of several months. He was a native of Tacoma, Washington, was raised in Alaska and educated at the University of Washington. He and his wife had been giving original puppet plays on the Peninsula for many years. Their little marionette theatre was located in the lobby of the Golden Bough Playhouse at one time, and they also toured with their shows, presenting them at the Pasadena Playhouse, Oakland Women's Club, Reed College campus, and many other points along the coast.

Mr. Scott is survived by his wife, Lee Scott, and by their three children, Hilton, John and Laura Lee Scott. Private services were held at the Paul Mortuary in Pacific Grove Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, the Rev. Alfred Seccombe officiating. Inurnment took place in the Salinas Columbarium.

TERTULIO AT THE JURS'

Last Friday night, at the home of Henry F. Jurs on Camino Real and Ninth, the members of Mrs. Rosa Goforth's Adult School Spanish classes met for their second monthly social gathering, called Tertulio. Spanish and Gypsy dances were given in costume by Frances Sanhez, Mrs. Goforth read Spanish classical poetry, and George McConnell in authentic Mexican costume sang a group of Xavier Cugat's ballads, accompanied on the guitar by Mrs. Albert Parks. Mr. Jurs read amusing Spanish stories and Samuel Sowers gave a humorous recitation. After Spanish games and songs by the entire group refreshments were served.

All students of Spanish are invited to join these classes and partake of the social opportunity once a month to put their study into practice.

All Local Churches To Co-operate In Organ Programs

Organists from several local churches are co-operating in giving a weekly organ vesper program at the Church of the Wayfarer every Wednesday from 5:15 to 6:00 p. m.

The idea is an innovation. There is to be no sermon; no collection; no "Sunday-go-to-meeting" clothes. The public is invited to come in and enjoy 45 minutes of the music everyone loves, played by the best of organists on the beautiful-toned Hammond Electric organ.

On December 3, Mrs. Margaret Sherman Lea presided at the organ; on December 10, Edward C. Hopkins will play; on December 17, Miss Alice Lee Keith of All Saints; on December 24, Christmas Eve, Robert Forbes of Carmel and organist of Mayflower Congregational Church of Pacific Grove will play.

The council, after passing two amendments of the zoning ordinance, defining transient occupancy and permitting churches and club houses in the residence district, decided to meet informally before the next regular meeting to discuss the impending 25 foot lot ordinance.

The petition of Madam Roma for a license to tell fortunes in Carmel was withdrawn by her representative when the council put the application off to the next meeting because the police commissioner said he had not yet received sufficient evidence of the record of the applicant.

was the passing of a resolution that the city councils of the three peninsula cities, the city and county planning commissions be informed that the art association is rigidly opposed to any legislation that would deprive art and music teachers of the right to instruct their pupils in their homes and studios in the residence district. The action is the result of the rumor that there is a movement on foot to approach the city council with a proposal to exclude music teachers from the residence district.

The Time Has Come . .

By KIPPY STUART

A garden is like a character; each must be built from the bottom up. Without the initial spade work a warden is just no darn good. The small trouble you take when placing a plant in the earth will save you months of disappointment, will assure proper growth and will make you point with pride, come Spring. The time has come to think of planting your ornamentals and flowering shrubs. Once these perennials are properly in the ground they give you nothing but joy.

The ploroma, also called the Princess bush, is the most beautiful and hardiest of shrubs. It is indeed a royal, noble tree. I speak of the ploroma as a bush and all as a tree. It can be trimmed for either use.

The enormous purple flowers, set against the dark green foliage, bloom for months and months and when properly pruned will burst forth in the spring to the glory of your garden. No fungus or insect has ever bothered my ploromas.

To prepare the ground for any shrub, it is the same, old story. Dig the hole twice as deep as needed; put in about one quart peat moss and one quart of manure, then stir . . . (I started to say "taste", it sounds so like good cooking.) Fill the hole with water several times before putting in plant. When ground is thoroughly mushed up and soft, sink into the soft earth and be sure you sink it down several inches below the surface of the earth. This to allow for soaking next summer. It does no good at all to sprinkle shrubs; the roots must be inundated several times a season. You can buy good ploromas now at any nursery in gallon cans for around $1.25. Be sure you have the nurseryman cut tin can and show you how to slip plant out.

The secret of the ploroma tree, or shrub, is drastic pruning. This is best done in February. The first year, merely tip your branches to the shape you wish the plant to grow. If you want a tree, clean off all lower branches; if you want a bush, trim the lateral and upper branches. When a ploroma reaches maturity, in about five years, it will break your heart come pruning time. I have two enormous ploromas, one a bush, the other a tree. They soar up to fifteen and eighteen feet and are the most beautiful things I have ever seen. Every February I prune the poor things back until they are only about ten feet high, but each spring I am rewarded, for up they shoot and away they go about their business of making the garden glamorous.

So . . . you don't believe I've got ploroma trees fifteen and eighteen feet high, don't you? You just come out to my place and bring your tape line. You'll be surprised!
